

Bagshot Cemetery Memorial Locations

This extra information will help those trying to locate individual grave plots.

The only Burial plots that can be located within the Cemetery are those with a Memorial of one description or other.

The list of those Buried at the Cemetery will have in the last column an indication as to where the information has come from these are

Acc from an Accts Register 1905 onwards

Bur from a Burial Register 1912 onwards

Mem from visible Memorials within the Cemetery

The most useful or more correct information has been used in collating the List of Burials, this will mean that the Burial date recorded in the list may in fact be the date of Death.

There is often insufficient information to be able to record both dates in the Burials List and where there is a Memorial the date of death is most likely to be used.

Records of Burials from either the Accounts or Grave Registers even where Grave Plots are recorded are of little help in locating the actual plot, Grave Plots can only be found where there is also a readable Memorial.

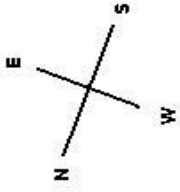

Sadly the earlier records of Burial and Account Registers have not been found, whether lost, misplaced or destroyed we do not know, this could account for dozens or possibly hundreds of Burials that we don't know about.

The following pages include some hand drawn maps of the Cemetery, the first an overall plan of the various sections and then in turn, area maps of each section showing the location of each Memorial, nothing is to scale but it is reasonably accurate.

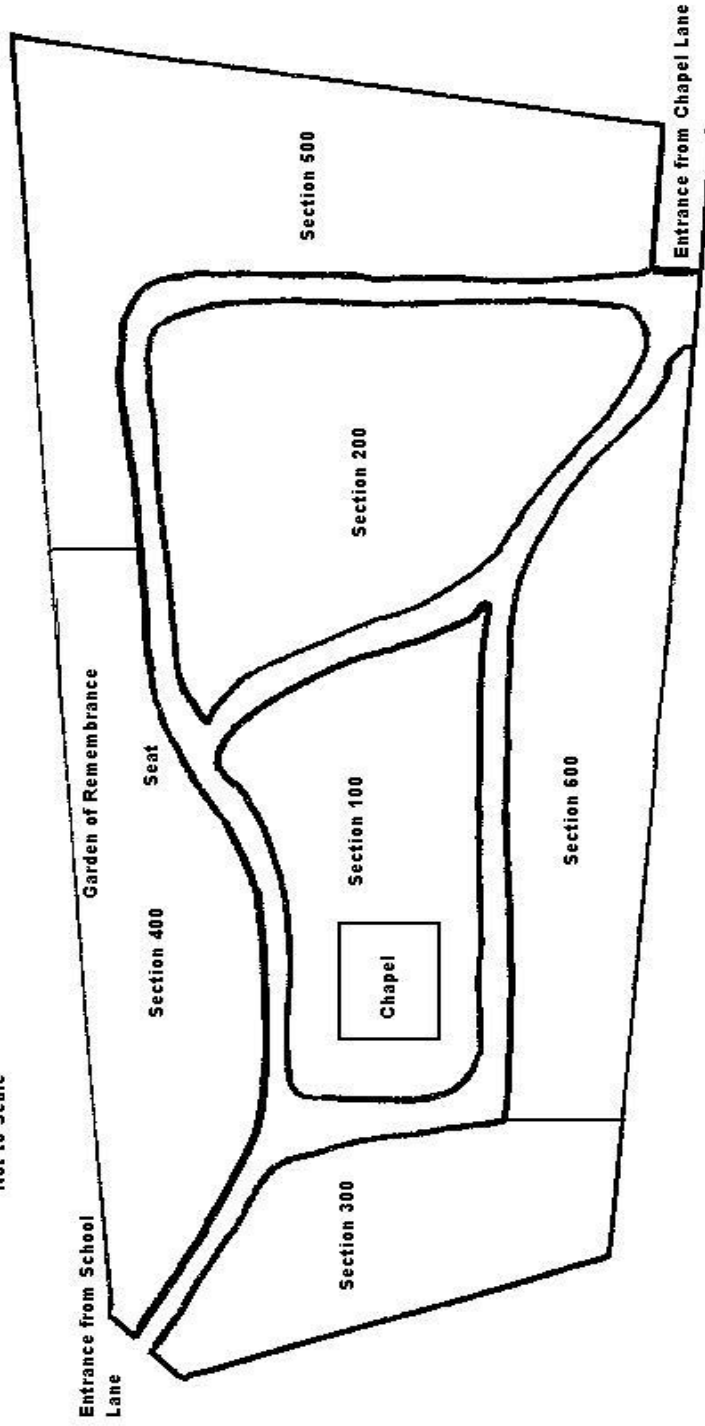

Use these maps along with the Memorial numbers from the web pages and all of the known Memorials can be found, be aware however that some are now almost impossible to read.

We do know that some graves include Cremated Remains, these have been listed where known, we have not however included those Cremated Remains that have been put in the Garden of Remembrance.
